

ABSTRACT

Compounds, compositions and methods are provided for inhibiting FAK mediated signaling. The compositions comprise antisense compounds targeted to nucleic acids
5 encoding FAK. Methods of using these antisense compounds for inhibition of FAK expression and for treatment of diseases, particularly cancers, associated with overexpression or constitutive activation of FAK are provided.